The third annual student-led high school hackathon in Los Gatos · Leigh High School ·

Hi,

Most students never get to build anything that matters before college. Ideas stay in a notebook because a real project needs a venue, food, hardware, mentors, motivation, and a deadline. Thats what we want to change.

CodeCraft Academy is a student-run nonprofit teaching computer science to the next generation — in local elementary schools and through free workshops in our public libraries. LG Hacks is the largest thing we do, and the only large-scale high school hackathon in Los Gatos.

WHO BUILDS

High schoolers across Los Gatos & the greater Bay Area

First-time coders to experienced developers, our different prize tracks give everyone a fair chance.

OUR VISION

Host the best large-scale student-led hackathon in Los Gatos

Full catering, real prizes, keynote speakers, and a venue big enough to make this a city-wide event

Why should you support us?

LG Hacks means a lot to us, and we need support from sponsors like you to make it happen. Your support will help us host the Bay Area's largest hackathon yet, creating meaningful opportunities and a low-stakes environment for inspiration to form.

What will your funds be used for?

- Food, drinks, and snacks for participants.
 - Stickers, cards, and other merch for participants to keep.
 - Other costs associated with hosting the event.
- Prizes for exceptional projects.
 - Cleaning, security, venue, and other fees.
